As an honors engineering advisor, I found Daniel wonderful to work with. He was friendly, appreciative, organized, and sought out opportunities to grow and challenge himself. He had advanced interpersonal skills, was mature, grounded, supportive, and giving to others. He was on a pre-Med path and I knew he would be a great doctor. I'm grateful for the times I worked with him. I honor him and his family and those who loved and appreciated him. I'm so sorry we lost him.

Very sad to hear this news. Daniel was a student in my class in Exeter. I greatly appreciated his adventurous and inquisitive spirit. Nothing was ever dull or quiet with Daniel around. He tested limits, asked questions, and always looked for ways to interject new ideas into the discussion. And he loved to photo-bomb my photos! I will certainly miss him. You have my deepest sympathies.

My deepest sympathy to Daniel's family. I had the privilege of getting to know him earlier this year when I visited our program in Exeter. He was a very gifted and engaging young man, full of curiosity and enthusiasm for new ideas and experiences, and a natural leader among his peers. His loss is shocking and tragic, and he will be deeply missed in the Judy Genshaft Honors College. Charles Adams Dean of the Judy Genshaft Honors College

My heart can't fathom and my brain can't understand one amazing family suffering from another beautiful life lost way too soon. The religious side of me says he is with Doc now and they are looking out for their family and all of us who were lucky enough to be a tiny part of it. The spiritual side of me says you never know what worse situations your misfortune is saving you from, and maybe there's a reason for all of it. But my actual thoughts & feelings are much less uplifting. All I can come up with is, Olga and Alex, I am so deeply sorry for your loss. I think about Doc every single day and now I have another wonderful life to think of alongside her. I'm also thinking of you both, and hope that your suffering does not linger. Your family has impacted my life so greatly and I wish I could do more. I love all four of you.

I want to express my deepest heartfelt condolences to Daniel's family and friends. Daniel was in my class on Russian Culture this semester and I am grateful for getting to know him over the past three months. Daniel's presence lit up the class in innumerable ways as he shared his knowledge and experiences of Russian culture, which was part of his heritage. His beautiful soul shined through in every one of his reflections and comments. He was a person of exceptional integrity who will be remembered and missed by many. I had the privilege of spending 3 months with Daniel on a study abroad trip we led to Exeter, England last spring. I believe Daniel's enthusiasm entered every room ahead of him, and his quest for excellence and knowledge drove all of us to consider our own goals and ambitions in new ways. He also appreciated my cooking, which is a sure way to win my heart! I will miss his energy, his drive, and most of all, his smile. My deepest condolence to the Saniukovich family.
