Obituary: Mohan Anantram Hebbar January 27, 1945 – February 4, 2026

Mohan Anantram Hebbar, a devoted husband, father, grandfather, and lifelong learner, passed away on February 4, 2026, at the age of 81.

Born on January 27, 1945, Mohan lived a life shaped by curiosity, thoughtful problem-solving, and deep integrity. His work ethic was exemplary and inspirational. He followed the principle from the Bhagavad Gita, “Karmanye Vadhikaraste Ma Phaleshu Kadachana” — You have a right to perform your duties, but you are not entitled to the fruits of your actions. He approached both his work and life with care, patience, and a determination to do things well. Over a 43-year career at Siemens-Westinghouse, he worked in project management and energy services, contributing to the design, development, and servicing of power plants. His work supported both traditional and emerging energy technologies, reflecting his long-standing interest in innovation and the responsible evolution of the energy sector.

In 2012, Mohan retired and settled in Tampa, Florida, where he embraced retirement with enthusiasm and purpose. Over the next 14 years, he and his wife, Poornima, traveled extensively, exploring the world together and carefully documenting their journeys. Completing visits to all 50 U.S. states was a milestone he took particular pride in, not for the achievement alone, but for the experiences and memories gathered along the way.

Mohan married Poornima in 1971, beginning a partnership that spanned more than five decades. She was a constant source of inspiration and strength throughout his personal and professional life. Poornima worked as a computer graphic designer for several companies before transitioning to freelance work. Together, they navigated many chapters of life across countries, careers, and communities with resilience, humor, and mutual respect.

I will always remember Mohan's ever-present smile and good humor, every time we met. I enjoyed our conversations about life and especially our common values on politics in America! We had similar career paths in this country, and so were able to share a lot of experiences. I wish we had had more time together, but life moves on inexorably at its own pace and its own trajectory. I will cherish the time and conversations we had with each other.

Mohan gave me 54 wonderful years of my life. I am extremely blessed! I got married and came to the United States with someone I had known for only a month. He turned out to be a partner anyone could only dream of! He was the sunshine of my life! Beyond his kindness and generous heart, Mohan moved through the world with humility. He treated everyone with unwavering respect and never held a grudge. Despite his many successes, he was a man of deep modesty; he never boasted about his career or his achievements, preferring instead to let his character speak for itself. He was a gentle soul who would never seek to hurt anyone. He lived by the principle from the (Baa-ga-vad) Bhagavad Gita — to do one's duty without expecting anything in return. He truly lived that every day. He didn't just believe in this; he embodied it every single day. He moved through the world with a meticulous, gentle grace—to Mohan, duty was never a burden; it was simply his way of life. We were a team in everything. Together, we planned, organized, and embraced all that life offered. We were bolstered by the love of relatives and friends who stood by us—especially through his journey with cancer. We could not have done it without their love and support. As a father, he was devoted—offering guidance, patience, and immense pride in his children's achievements. As a grandfather, he was a source of pure joy, whether he was focused on a board game or sharing in their latest activities. My sister once said that Mohan and I were 'two bodies and one soul.' We were deeply connected in everything we did. It is not only our family who has lost him; the world has lost an extraordinary man. But his immortal soul will continue to enrich and guide all of us whose lives he has touched and made a difference. I'm sharing the prayer and principle he's followed since his early days ...

We got particularly close with Mohan and Poornima when we lived in Chapel Hill, North Carolina, where Manish was first at Duke and then at UNC. We enjoyed having them visit us frequently, and still remember those days very fondly. We will miss Mohan terribly; may his soul rest in peace. I have known Babu Uncle since my childhood days in Mumbai, Bangalore and have many wonderful memories of him. He took great joy in visiting us in Australia and the US, strengthening bonds across continents and reminding us that family knows no distance. His visits were marked by lively conversations, shared meals, and his unmistakable smile !! I will always remember him for his attention to detail being it planning a trip or organizing something, or offering guidance, he approached it with care and precision. His attentiveness showed not only in big gestures but even in the smallest acts of thoughtfulness. One moment that truly captures who he was happened just last year. During a very casual phone call with him and Auntie I happened to mention an upcoming holiday and that we were still trying to plan our family trip. It was just a simple conversation and then we spoke of other things. Within minutes of hanging up I received a thoughtful email from him listing travel agents, phone numbers and helpful suggestions. That was Babu Uncle since-attentive, generous with his time, and always going the extra mile without being asked. It deeply touched my heart. He will be deeply missed and lovingly remembered by all who had the privilege of knowing him. Sending across my deepest condolences to Poornima Auntie, Reshmi and Manish. Lots of Love, Pooja Hebbar

Mohan's sudden departure has left a void that is hard to describe. I will always cherish the memories from my graduate-school days, when his home in Pensacola became a place of warmth and welcome during Thanksgiving and Christmas breaks. My first Turkey Day in the late 80s — complete with tennis, a beach outing, the movie Big, and Poornima's wonderful feast — remains unforgettable. Mohan planned every detail with such care that being around him was joyful. I also fondly remember the Hebbar's visiting our small Tuscaloosa apartment for a Bama game weekend. They arrived with sleeping bags and pillows, ready to make the most of it. With the stadium just steps away, it became a weekend full of laughter, camaraderie, and simple happiness. Mohan's wisdom extended far beyond those moments. His thoughtful advice on financial planning has stayed with me, and I remain deeply grateful for his guidance. He will be remembered for his kindness, his meticulous nature, and the warmth he brought into every gathering. May his wonderful soul rest in everlasting peace. Om Shanti.

Since then, we have met during several gatherings. He was always thoughtful, kind, and love for his family was obvious. We were excited about his moving to our community. Dear Poornima, I have lost a dear brother whom I have adored and looked up to. He was a role model to me during my college days and I have always enjoyed a close bond even through the years I have known him from our days at Babulnath, Mumbai, where I spent many summer holidays, I remember the early morning walks, during Neera, climbing up to Malabar Hills, buying ice from the ice factory and making mango ice cream at home, the memories are endless. I know you from the day you first met him at the Ravindra Kalakshetra where you two were made to bump into each other (along with both families!). We watched the Kannada play 'Kappu dweepa kempu dweepa' All the wonderful times when I was a frequent visitor to your house when I worked at NL Industries at Hightstown. Including that memorable New Years Eve in Philly. Our meetings in Florida (Pensacola, Tampa). We can only cling to those memories. Our last meeting was at Saumya's house in Nettleham. Her children really loved both of you and I remember Rishabh holding your hand when we went out on a stroll. Babu will be sorely missed, not only by you but all the people who came in touch with him during his life. These are trying times for you. Some consolation that Manish, Esther and Reshmi, Svetal and family are there for you. You have been his loving and constant companion all these years. His passing will leave a vacuum and I pray that you get the strength and courage to bear this loss. My very deepest condolences to you and Reshmi and Manish.

A message from my sister, Anjali Arun-"My Bhawa: I was seven when my sister got married. Til then, Akka (as I call her) was my mother substitute since Amma would be busy with other things. On one of Akka's outings with Bhawa a little before marriage, she took me along. I saw my bhawa hold her hand while crossing the road. As a young kid, I got very jealous and thought he was taking Akka away from us. It was years later I realized I didn't lose Akka, I gained another brother. From that day, Bhawa never let go of her hand. They were two bodies and one soul. Deeply connected in everything they did from traveling to compiling albums to gardening to hosting guests, besides being wonderful parents to Reshmi and Manish. Bhawa had the unique ability to connect from young to the elderly. He could play board games with my daughter and discuss politics and take Appa to Home Depot for innumerable errands without getting annoyed. He has been a pillar of support for all of us, especially Appa, in all our good and bad times. Years down the line whenever my daughter gets married, as per our traditions, I was hoping my brother and Bhawa would walk her down the aisle. That was not to be. I lost both of them in a span of a year. Bhawa will be missed deeply, but I know he's happy and in peace wherever he is."

On Mohan's (Babumama) first trip back to India from the US more than 55 years ago, he gifted me a unique & memorable picnic set (with a thermos inside). The set depicted Neil Armstrong & the Apollo 11 crew after a successful moon landing. I was the envy of my entire class whenever I chose to show that off during school picnics! And perhaps that gift may have sowed my keen interest in 'airplanes & space' which lingers to this day. During my very brief stay in the US with Mohan & Poornima (aunty), Mohan had asked where I wished to sight-see; it came full circle when I expressed a desire to visit Cape Canaveral & he personally took me there. Wherever he is now, he's probably igniting that same spark in someone with genuine love.His acts of kindness came with a lot of thoughtfulness, unsolicited by those who received them. During Covid when Mumbai Consulate interview dates were hard to obtain, he suo moto wrote to his area's Senator highlighting my case & urging to provide an early interview date. Such was his thoughtfulness, though, we hadn't solicited his help. He went out of his way, because he considered that was simply the right thing to do.Mohan's memory is one to be fondly cherished & our prayers are with his family to find the strength to get round his absence. There are many fond memories of Babu, as my brother used to be fondly called; these can fill many pages. One of them is a memory from the Diwali festival when we were teenagers. Myself and Savitri (my younger sister) used to make a list of firecrackers to be purchased for the festival, with the help of Babu & Nanya, my other brother. In the list, one particular 'chain firecracker', called 'Lavangi', had priority. Most of the time dad & Babu used to go to purchase. After that we used to separate the 'Lavangi chain' into single firecrackers, so that it would last longer and all of us could extend & enjoy those moments. The last and the most recent unforgettable & fondest memory is when I spoke to Babu while on his bed in Jan '26 and wished him on his birthday. He too thanked me, although he was in hospital. I consider myself the luckiest sister and fully satisfied with the way we interacted together. May his soul rest in eternal peace. With love, Leela Rao (sister)

Mohan was a kind soul with a gentle demeanor. He definitely left behind a legacy of kindness in the hearts of his family and friends. I met Mohan in 1983 when I moved to Pensacola, Florida, to work for Reichhold Chemicals. There were only a few Indian families in Pensacola who often met at their respective homes during weekends. We often visited Mohan and Poornima. Mohan is survived by his wife Poornima with whom he spent 54 years together. I don't often come across too many couples like Mohan & Poornima, probably 2-3 couples in my entire life. They had certainly won the couple's lottery of being together, inseparable all throughout their lives. I had once driven with Mohan several years back in the early 80s to the Birmingham, Alabama airport to pick up Poornima who was arriving from India along with her two lovely children Rashmi and Manish. Mohan had driven the onward journey and I was supposed to drive the way back to Pensacola. Mohan asked me if it was ok for him to sit at the back to be with his family who were probably away for the whole summer vacation. I said of course. I have watched them since, over the years as two love ❤️ birds, inseparable. I can only fathom the sorrow and pain Poornima is going through without Mohan beside her. Last December, Mohan and Poornima Hebbar had made the decision to move into Anand Vihar by buying the home owned by our good friend Amrit Patel. Amrit told us that he will be renting the home since he wanted to visit India last month. As per my memory, Mohan and Poornima wanted to move to Anand Vihar during April. We were shocked to hear the news from our dear friends Raghupathi and Kasturi Sarma that Mohan died on 4th February 2026. Raghu and Kasturi who eagerly waiting to welcome their dear friends could not able to bear the grief due to the sudden loss of their good friend. Raghu and Kasturi are living in Yamuna way right opposite to the home bought by Mohan. Another friend of us Mohan Rao narrated how he met Mohan and Poornima during one of the ICC Senior meetings. During their conversations at ICC, they were able to recognize several common friends. Mohan Rao also expressed his condolences when heard the news. I (Ram Chandran) and my wife (Shanthi) want to convey our condolences to the family of Mohan and Poornima. In short, many residents live in and around the Yamuna Way, Ganga Way, Godavari Way, and Anand Vihar Blvd felt that they lost one of the family members of Anand Vihar. We were all very excited when heard that Mohan will be joining soon but God wanted him badly and took him to be with Him. The statement, "Man proposes and God disposes," came out to be very true. Human life is evolved by coping with uncertainties and any tragic event is a true test of our will-power. All tragic events are pain-ful, some we readily accept and others we refuse to accept. When we make up our mind to accept the tragedy, the pain will slowly subside and we can avoid unnecessary sufferings. From time to time, the Lord tries to test our will power and the strength of our faith, conviction and devotion. Lord Krishna in Bhagavad Gita explains to us through Arjuna that the human soul never gets destroyed and what is destroyed is only the physical body. Though the physical body of Mohan is no more, his soul will always be present and will guide the family throughout their life journey. Our friends who know Mohan have told me that he has been an exceptionally talented and very loving individual. It is also possible for those who had acquaintance with him to recognize his good deeds. We were very fortunate to learn more about the virtuous nature of Mohan through our common friends. Our scriptures say that we only possess the authority to witness of events that happens during our life. We have no power to stop the occurrence of those events. Joy and sorrow are parts of everyone's life. Rich, poor, wise, ignorant, young, old, etc., all have to face both joy and sorrow. Even though we can't control the events but God has provided us with the wisdom to cope up with all events – good or bad, joy or sorrow and pleasant or unpleasant. If we rewind the past events that we have witnessed, we will be amazed to see how we, our parents, grandparents, relatives and friends have handled such difficult situations. All that we need is to take few moments to reflect back and think on the positive aspects of life. Finally, grief is inevitable when the tragedy strikes all of a sudden but the family can take steps to relieve sorrow. One of the ways to forget grief is through prayers which will soothe the mind by diverting it to the divine. Once again, we take this opportunity to express our sincere condolences to the grieving family members. Ram and Shanthi Chandran

Mohan Uncle was not my uncle by blood, but he was my uncle in every way that mattered. I met him when I was just 12 years old—over 50 years ago—and I feel so fortunate to have grown up in his orbit. Some of my favorite memories still make me smile. One year, he mailed me a Christmas card from my favorite Dallas Cowboys player. I was thrilled. I taped it to my wall in college and proudly told everyone that Charlie Waters had sent me a Christmas card. It took a couple of years before Mohan Uncle finally admitted that it was actually from him—not Charlie Waters. When I was working on my PhD, I decided to drive from Lafayette, Louisiana to Tampa, Florida—mind you, I am not a driver. Thankfully, Mohan Uncle's home in Pensacola was exactly halfway. I was able to stop, spend time with him and Poornima Auntie, enjoy a delicious meal, and recharge before continuing the journey. That stop meant more to me than he probably ever knew. A more recent memory was when Mohan Uncle and Poornima Auntie came to visit me in Sugar Land, Texas. We had tickets to see Shankar Mahadevan, and when I told Mohan Uncle about it, his response was immediate and joyful: "Of course we will go—and dance and sing with you!" That was him—always enthusiastic, always present, always full of life. Mohan Uncle had a way of making life feel simpler and kinder just by being himself. I am so grateful to have known him, to have learned from him, and to have loved him. He was an amazing friend to my father and will be missed terribly. His love for family though—both the one he was born into and the one he created—will continue to live on through all of us who were lucky enough to call him ours. We love you always, Mohan Uncle.
