I met Tim 25 years ago shortly after he married Cathy. He was part of a friend group that went on a cruise together. Over the years, I became close friends with Tim and Cathy. Terry and I spent many evenings playing dominoes and eating Tim's delicious ribs. He always called me doll which brought a smile to my face every time. He was a sweet kind man and I will miss him greatly. Rest in peace my friend. Diane Gue

Timmy, my cousin, my sometimes little brother, my friend. My relationship from birth. I moved into the Morgan household at the age of 16 and stayed there until I was 21. Timmy was like my little brother from babysitting to hanging out together as an adult. I have so many memories but the one that I think of often was when he introduced me to Cathy and quietly told me this is the one. "Quietly" is key word here. He was a charmer, funny and a born salesman. ❤️PS he and my brother were always sent away from the table for laughing.

Timmy was a good friend for nearly 40 years. For the first 20 of those, Timmy, Bobby, and I were inseparable, fully embracing the single life and making the most of it. Timmy and I shared birthdays that were close together, which often meant renting a limo and hitting the town with our fellow partners-in-crime—Bobby, Brad, and Cindy (Sinbad). One by one, we got married, settled down, and began new chapters of our lives, slowly becoming semi-responsible adults. Even though we didn't see each other as often as we would have liked, we always stayed in touch over the years. Timmy was a kind and generous person to anyone who took the time to truly get to know him, and he will be deeply missed.
